New Carlisle High School,

It's Ter-r-r-rific

FOREWORD

New Carlisle High School is a familiar sight to all who enter its friendly portals. Here we endeavor to educate our minds and bodies and to refresh our spirits. We work together as a group but in a few years we will go our separate ways as individuals in a busy world. We hope that high school will provide us with a sound background, not only in scholarship but also in sportsmanship, and citizenship.

In the years to come, we will want to remember all of the good times and exciting events which happened the past year. This 1960 Olive Branch is a permanent record of the people and activities which have left a lasting impression on our minds. Toby Tiger, our mascot leads us through this annual and frequently reminds us that high school is "ter-r-r-rific."

ADMINISTRATION, FACULTY AND STUDENTS

Our leaders . . . teachers and administrators

Mr. Orrin Shaw, Assistant Principal; Mr. Harry Stoneburner, Principal; and Mr. Carr Rodgers, Trustee of Olive Township.

Administration and faculty--just what do these words mean? They symbolize dedicated leadership; lives devoted to furthering education; experienced organizers, and never-ceasing enthusiasm for curricular and extra-curricular activities.

Our administration was headed by the Trustee of Olive Township, Mr. Carr Rodgers. He hired our teachers and set the school budget.

Administering discipline, determining curricula, and setting school policies were the duties of our principal, Mr. Harry Stoneburner.

Mr. Orrin Shaw, Assistant Principal, kept attendance records, made school reports to state officers, and relieved the principal of many other routine duties.

Mrs. Virginia Dood and Mrs. Betty Watson were in charge of general office management.

We looked to our administration and faculty for leadership, guidance, and inspiration, during our days in school.

New Carlisle's largest senior class

John Laureys, Vice President; Dan Swartz, President; Gerri Gromski, Treasurer; and Carolyn Grabarek, Secretary.

"We've made it!" That was the sound that echoed through the halls as we seniors ended our high school days.

We, the Class of 1960, were the largest graduating class in the history of New Carlisle High School. We contributed our share of leaders in scholarship and athletics and found friends we will cherish always.

All that remain are the wonderful memories of our numerous activities: The record breaking magazine sales, the choosing of class jackets, those unpredictable class parties and plays and of course, our class rings.

One final backward glance over our ended senior year . . . our last prom . . . and commencement, makes us wonder if the cry "We've made it" is as joyous as it first sounded.

We hope, however, that N.C.H.S. will seem a little empty without us, and that through the years we truly added something to it.

Mr. Stoneburner congratulates Carol Corpe, Mary Hayter, and Ann Bate.

Juniors plan another wonderful prom

Sandy Baginski, President; Nancy Davis, Treasurer; Sandy Arick, Vice President; and Connie Roloff, Secretary.

As the Class of '61 looks back over the many exciting things that happened to them this past year, they also look ahead toward being all-powerful seniors. Yet they'll always remember their junior year . . . shining new class rings which made them proud to be juniors; the Junior-Senior Prom; and the growing knowledge they acquired from curricular and extra-curricular activities.

With their sponsors; Mrs. Ruth Crouch, Mr. Blaine Gamble, Mrs. Anne Miller, Mr. Darle Pfeiffer, and Mr. Frank Zielinski, they planned two super class parties, ordered their rings, and planned the prom.

Ambitious class of '62 has a busy year

*Bill Mason
Ed*

Del Mason, President; Arlene Wrobleski, Secretary; Orville Brown, Treasurer; Dick Horvath, Vice President.

"Busy" is a good word to describe the Class of 1962. Thanks to their sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rodgers, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stotts, and Mr. and Mrs. William Lynch, the active sophomores received much useful guidance.

Magazines, magazines, and more magazines were on the minds of all the sophomores trying to make money for the class. Along with the arrival of their new powder blue jackets, two fun-loving class parties helped to make their year complete.

The sophomores' days were happy ones filled with anticipation of their junior year when they'll be starting in the upper leagues.

High school newcomers . . . class of '63

Reva Clark, President; Janice Hanes, Vice President; Barb Kulwicki, Secretary; and Ronnie Estep, Treasurer.

The Class of 1963 started off the year with the election of class officers and the traditional Halloween cake raffle. Two successful class parties are also to be marked as big events.

The freshmen enjoyed the fun that went with all their activities and appreciated the help of their patient sponsors, Mr. Jack Apple, Mr. Rex Thomas, Mrs. Mary Brummitt, Miss Carolyn Judd, and Mr. Clyde Robinson.

Now that their first year has ended, they are looking forward to being sophomores. Then they'll be able to give the lowly freshmen some of the ribbing they received.

Elementary pupils learn fundamentals

Olive Township Elementary School,
New Carlisle's newest school building.

Elementary principal, Mr. Homer Stomm and elementary secretary, Mrs. Lucille Moore.

The elementary school is where children have their first sample of school life. This marks the beginning of new friendships and experiences. Grade school is the basis for further education, and without so many wonderful and well qualified teachers, this important knowledge of fundamentals would be inadequate.

At the head of the elementary school is the principal, Mr. Homer Stomm. His job is a big one but he handles it very adequately. Mrs. Lucille Moore, elementary secretary, keeps the school records up-to-date, and performs other tasks.

CURRICULUM

Miss Miller, are you sure this will actually help me figure out my income tax?

Karen Moraschi asks, "Would you tell me how to write 'Dear John' in shorthand?"

School buys modern typing equipment

The hunt and peck system is strictly taboo in Mr. Stotts' first year typing class.

"Can you actually read those funny looking marks?" This is typical of the questions asked by New Carlisle students who are taking shorthand. Other business courses in the curricula are general business, bookkeeping, and typing. The business department is designed to give students a fundamental knowledge of business and to help them secure jobs.

This year, six new typewriters and thirty-nine desks and chairs were purchased for the typing classes. The new furniture certainly gave the typing room a modern look.

General business gives the basic fundamentals for understanding different business methods, while bookkeeping is a more detailed course involving the keeping of records of complete business transactions. Shorthand is a method of quick writing in which symbols are substituted for words and letters.

Variety was the keyword in shop classes this year. Among their projects were hunting boats, sailboats, racing boats, and even a canoe. They also constructed chairs, desks, tables, and other furniture. There were few restrictions placed on the type and size made. Some of the students used a new material called fiberglass in their projects and learned to use tools and equipment necessary to the occupation of carpentry.

Mechanical drawing was included in this department, too. Students taking mechanical drawing learned to draw scales and different designs and obtained a good background for engineering, and other jobs where precision is necessary.

Mechanical Drawing students study all kinds of interesting figures.

Industrial arts students build boats

What a sound! The sawdust symphony is buzzing away down in the shop room.

"What you've said may be true, Mrs. Lynch, but I still believe you can burn water!"

Future homemakers learn many skills

Dave Peterson and John Laureys test soil for phosphate and acidity.

Laying a foundation for everyday living or for a lifetime career is the purpose of agriculture and home economics. As a result of these subjects, students become better farmers and homemakers.

Agriculture is one of the most popular and beneficial courses taught at New Carlisle.

Agriculture boys participated in grain, dairy, and livestock judging, soil testing, and filling out project books. They also took many field trips to farms in the area to learn the farmers' methods of farming, judge their animals, and discuss problems they may have concerning farming.

Besides cooking various individual dishes, home economics girls also planned and cooked balanced meals. Other units in this course were home nursing and child care, interior decorating, marriage relations, and clothing. Girls taking clothing made everything from skirts to formals.

"One, two, way back," was a familiar sound around the gymnasium as students started the hour with calisthenics. They also gained exercise by participating in such games as basketball, softball, archery, line soccer baseball, badminton, and volleyball. Freshman boys and girls were required to take physical education for one year. Besides giving students exercise, it gave them lessons in sportmanship, body conditioning, and getting along with others.

Health was a first semester course required for graduation. All senior boys had to have the course while senior girls were exempt if they had had two years of home economics. Students of health studied the parts and systems of the body, and the meaning of such things as personality, emotions, mental health, etc.

Physical education builds our bodies

Looks like someone scheduled Leonard Crawford for the wrong class this hour.

98 . . . 99 . . . 100! Man, these pushups are hard on a fellow.

The high school band is busy working on music for the district contest.

Some people think it's never too late to add finishing touches.

Creative students enjoy fine arts

There's a song in the air whenever the high school chorus is around.

Everyone likes to look at good pictures and listen to fine music. Many people found this combination by listening to the band and chorus, and taking a peek in the art room.

The New Carlisle band is well known for its wonderful performances. It has participated in many contest and parades with a very high rating. Several entertaining half-time shows were put on at ball games by this striking group of music enthusiasts in their new uniforms of blue and gold.

There were seventeen girls in the high school chorus. Among their activities were participating in the talent show, the annual Thanksgiving program, and the task of putting on the Christmas program.

Art was another course included in this department and was enjoyed by students of all ages. Some of their activities were drawing portraits of class members and football players, and making masks.

Personality, emotions, habits, planning a career, and choosing a mate were a few of the topics discussed by the psychology students. They were required to write research papers on such subjects as inferiority complexes and hypnotism. The purpose of psychology is to understand the behavior of ourselves and others--why people act the way they do, and to learn to recognize the reasons behind these acts.

Sociology deals with the problems of juvenile delinquency, slum areas, problems of the nation and cities, and marriage. It was taught the second semester and psychology was taught the first semester.

Drivers Training was a required subject and because of the increasing number of students, it was also taught during the summer. It taught students to realize the responsibility of driving, and gave them a favorable attitude toward laws and other drivers.

Human behavior must be interesting! The psychology class is really absorbed in their textbooks.

Good drivers must be properly trained

Some students need a pillow, but it looks like Judy Hoover will need three of them.

Geometry students learn that it takes practice to handle a compass with skill.

One of the biggest departments in New Carlisle is Mathematics. The subjects in this department are high school mathematics, algebra I, advanced algebra, plane geometry, solid geometry, and trigonometry.

The purpose of high school mathematics is a review of arithmetic for general use. Algebra is the study of equations; advanced algebra is a continuation of it; plane geometry deals with plane figures; solid geometry deals with solid figures; and trigonometry is a course in which angles and trigonometric functions are studied.

The advanced courses in mathematics were designed for the student planning to enter a profession such as architecture, engineering, science or any other occupation which is based on a knowledge of mathematics. However, a knowledge of mathematics is an asset in nearly any occupation because it promotes sound reasoning.

Mathematics . . . the language of scientists

Some creative mind has dreamed up a new kind of equation.

Mr. Gamble will have to scatter this stag line when the next test rolls around.

Social studies broaden understanding

"... all powers not delegated to the United States ... are delegated to me!"

"We The People of the United States, in Order to form a more perfect Union, . . . do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America." These words from the Preamble to the Constitution were a small portion of the memory work in our social studies department. Current events work was required and included a program for enrichment of social studies vocabulary. Students also worked on formal research papers, book reports, and charts since the library has added so many reference books. This department has also gained a complete new set of maps and new globes.

Social studies courses were guidance, a government course required of freshmen; civics, a similar course required of seniors; United States History, which gave juniors a better understanding of our heritage and growth of our nation; geography; and world history.

Mrs. Ekstrom: "How would you punctuate this?"
Wally: "I'd make a dash after it."

We study English . . . our native tongue

John Zakrowski elaborates on the topic of his speech:
"How To Start A Riot!"

A system for recording book reports was established in the English department this year. Book reports were recorded on file cards which will remain as permanent records of each student's report throughout high school.

The principal objective of the English department was to establish a complete course of study for the language arts curriculum in grades seven through twelve. By this means, the department hopes to promote unity of purpose and method in order to insure the attainment of basic skills.

Grammar, spelling, vocabulary, composition, speech, and literature were taught for six or twelve weeks by separate teachers. Senior English was also available to college preparatory students. They were required to write a research paper as part of their pre-college preparatory work.

In Spanish they said, "Si, si,"; in French they said "Oui, oui"; and in English, one hundred twenty New Carlisle students answered yes when asked if they were taking a foreign language. The foreign languages taught were French I, French II, Spanish I, Spanish II, and Latin I. The students in these courses studied simple conversation, grammar, and translation into English. They also learned about the countries in which these languages are spoken.

Foreign language courses will prove to be very valuable for those going into a profession where this knowledge is required. With colleges becoming more difficult to enter, students may desire to take several different languages to pave the way for their ambitions.

The classes carried on several projects. Among them were the selling of Christmas cookies, a Roman banquet, a fiesta, and a field trip to Chicago.

Mrs. Stotts points out a VERY interesting illustration of French life.

Cultures of foreign lands are studied

"Adios," says Mary Chavez, but little does she know that the door leads to a closet!"

Cline Tucker! That is a big-toothed aspen, not a buck-toothed aspirin.

If Marke Cooke fills this bag with hydrogen he may float out of the classroom.

We discover the mysteries of science

This experiment is used to tell the weight of the meter stick by where it balances.

"Diamonds are a girl's best friend." Maybe someday the chemistry students will make diamonds but they haven't reached that stage yet. However, they're learning a lot about chemistry.

Chemistry is the science dealing with the chemical properties, composition, reactions, and uses of a substance. This is one of the more difficult science courses offered to students. Another is physics which is the science dealing with the properties, changes, and interaction of matter and energy. Both subjects are advanced courses of science and prove to be very helpful to those students who are planning to be doctors, nurses, and pharmacists.

Biology is a required subject that deals with the origin, history, changes, and habits of plants and animals. Biology students were required to make leaf collections and insect collections along with their regular class work.

You think you have problems! Mr. Taylor, the guidance counselor, was confronted with students' problems constantly. He played a very big part in the operation of the school. He helped students in planning what subjects to take, re-arranged their schedules if necessary, made sure they had enough credits to graduate, and sometimes helped with problems at home.

Our library was another New Carlisle asset. Library units were taught to the seventh and ninth grades, and to senior English classes. These students learned to use the card catalogue and to take full advantage of the materials offered. During the year, eleven student librarians worked in the library and gained useful experience in doing so.

Study Hall was a life-saver for pupils who forgot to take home a book or who had a test the next hour. For very busy students it was a convenient place to work on assignments.

Mr. Taylor gives Margie Zakrowski a few pointers on what to take in high school.

Guidance counselor aids students

Bandage or no bandage, this student is determined to get his work done.

This must be a good dictionary! I found antidisestablishmentarianism in it.

Varsity's ter-r-rific teamwork results

Orville Brown eludes an enemy tackler as he sweeps downfield toward a touchdown.

Playing its toughest schedule in five seasons, the New Carlisle football team won five games out of nine. The Tigers got off to a bad start and lost two of their first three games. Then in the fourth game they scored twenty points in the last quarter to upset Nappanee. This triumph sparked them to victory in their next three games.

Our team achieved great "come from behind victories" in three other games besides the Nappanee game. In each of the games against Jimtown, North Judson, and Rochester they scored two touchdowns in the fourth quarter and ended the match in victory. The team showed great spirit in all the games and even in defeat they never gave up.

In our second year of Northern State Conference competition we finished in a second place tie with Washington-Clay who beat us 20-7. This rating was a vast improvement on last years fifth place finish.

Varsity Tigers beat Greene Bulldogs

Although Penn has the advantage, Orville Brown tries to tip the ball to Ron Massey or Terry Dodd.

In its second season under Coach Bob Stotts, the Tiger basketball team had a rough year, winning seven games and losing fourteen. The Tigers, rebuilding after a fine year, got off to a bad start by winning just two out of their first eleven contests.

Just before the county tourney, new players were put on the varsity and our team began to show improvement. In the county tourney our Tigers fought hard before losing to the eventual champions. We were very proud when Terry Tolmen was chosen for the all-tourney team.

In their last ten games, the Tigers greatly improved as they won five games and lost five games. Students gave the team fine support in both victory and defeat. The coaching staff is looking forward to next year when the whole team will return along with the fine Freshmen and "B" teams.

Coach Gamble was very pleased when the Mishawaka coach praised his team and predicted a fine future for this well balanced squad of underclassmen.

Under Coach Bill Lynch our track team also enjoyed a fine season. It ended its season by going for its third straight title in the county track meet. The boys fought hard but could not beat Washington Clay and Penn Twp. and we had to settle for a third place finish.

The track team is looking forward to next year and another chance at beating out Washington Clay and Penn Twp. for the county title.

Olive Branch and Tattler staffs learn

Yearbook editors busily work to meet those nerve-shattering deadlines.

Working together as a team the Yearbook staff and their advisor, Mr. Haag, "burned the midnight oil" to complete the 1960 Olive Branch.

Among the 20 members working diligently on the staff this year were the Editor, Marlene Cooreman; Ass't. Editor, Nancy Estep; Associate Editor, Bob Dudeck; and Business Manager, Kay Cooper.

The purpose of the Yearbook is to provide an educational experience for students interested in any phase of professional writing and also to sponsor fund-raising activities. Among these activities was the "Sweetheart Swirl," at which a Prince and Princess were crowned.

the fundamentals of high school journalism.

This smiling Tattler staff must have come across a really funny picture.

"Team work" seems to be the motto of the twenty members on the Tattler Staff. Editor, John Anderson, Assistant Editor, Donna Herdrich, and advisor, Mr. Max E. Haag, established a semi-monthly publication.

Any high school student with a "C" average was eligible to join the staff. Students interested in journalism gained experience and education in this field.

Among the Tattler's various activities they sponsored a Valentine candy drawing, and also sold student directories.

The production of the Tattler was worth the effort to everyone who either had part in producing the paper, or those that read them.

Happy and excited, Sandy Arick is all smiles as she is announced "Princess of Hearts."

A cheery valentine theme was carried out at the "Sweetheart Swirl," sponsored by the Olive Branch. It was held in the elementary gym, with Phil Reed supplying the music for the many attendants. The beautiful decorations consisted of gold cupids, and red and gold hearts of all sizes suspended from crepe paper streamers.

In the dance's midpoint, the coronation of the Prince and Princess of Hearts took place with the help of Mr. Stutsman, officiating master of ceremonies. While the anxious candidates were on stage, a bouquet of red roses and an engraved gold locket were presented to Sandra Arick as she was crowned Princess. A rose boutonniere and engraved gold cuff links were presented to Terry Tolman as he was crowned Prince. The Prince and Princess of Hearts for 1960 led off the next dance, and soon everyone else joined in to congratulate the happy couple.

Queen Frances Panos

Prom royalty is Queen Fran Panos, and King Bruce Ostertag. Court is as follows: Carolyn Brummitt, Theresa Dobryzkowski, Myrna Miller, Butch O'Shea, Benny Bromley, and Larry Fisher.

"Stairway to the Stars" was Prom theme

Leaving the scene of the crime--oops, Prom--are several junior and senior couples.

A "Stairway to the Stars" was found at the Knights of Columbus Hall in May of 1959. A star-studded sky, highlighted with pastel lights and billowy clouds set the mood which was carried through by Al Ricci and his orchestra.

This didn't just happen but was the result of months of planning. Hundreds of stars of assorted sizes were cut out, glittered, and tied up. Clouds to line the stage were built. All work was done with great enthusiasm for this gayla occasion--the Prom!

As the couples danced on and on to the music of the orchestra, suspense arose over the crowning of King and Queen of the Prom. Finally, Fran Panos was crowned as Queen and Bruce Ostertag as King. Fran was presented with a bouquet of roses and a scepter and Bruce was presented with a scepter also. After the coronation ceremony everyone continued to enjoy the wonderful evening.

We, the editors of the 1960 Olive Branch, look back with pleasure upon the construction of this book. We have shared many memories, both happy and distressing. We have sought to cover every phase of our school year through the many pictures and articles which appear in this book.

We wish to thank our teachers for their patience, Mr. Bob Albertson for his help in selecting the cover design, and all the business concerns and individuals for their financial aid. Of course, we cannot neglect to thank the Olive Branch staff for the things they did to help us along. But most of all, we wish to give our sincere thanks to our advisor, Mr. Max E. Haag, and to our photographer, Mr. Anthony Waruszewski. Without their help, this book would not have been possible.

In closing we hope sincerely that our chief goal has been reached and the wonderful memories of the year of 1960 at New Carlisle High School will be vivid in the minds of all our readers.

To one of the sweetest and best of the sophmores. I hope we can always be friends swell. Next year our class will run the school! Isn't that right? We will really have a ball! O.K.? See you

Remember all the fun music had since grade school? We'll forget it because next year music really gonna rock! We'll be big 'bad' sis. and whether you take advantage of it or not I sure am! You better stay with us cause we're gonna have one riot after another! You're a real neat gal and I like you a whole lot. I know you'd fit in perfectly. Also next year the syndicate is going on (with Johnny as its head) and you, Nancy, Mary Ann etc. are of course gonna join cause its so much fun.
The Sr boys (next year) are a little nuttier than last year and along with all Sr. boys who are also pretty crazy things should no-never be dull. Think of the parties, meals at hall games, broken bone tobogganing etc. I know music had fun in in the past but its nothing compared to what's
